It is a Crime

To permit yourself to suffer the total prostration of your feeble body and mind when strength and vigor may be restored by the use of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. No case of dyspepsia, however complicated with other disorders, has ever resisted this powerful corrective. No case of debility, however long standing, has failed to yield to its influence. What should be said of those who are daily suffering from the progress of an incurable disease, when a remedial agency can be had which is endorsed by the most eminent physicians and chemists in the country? Nothing can be more certain than the fact that this vegetable preparation will cure Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Constipation, Kidney Disease, Nervousness, Rheumatism, Fever and Ague, and all diseases originating in a disordered Stomach, Liver or Bowels. Stomach Bitters is the only preparation before the world in which the essential sanitary elements are united in the proportions necessary to ever cure disease without prostrating the patient. The agents employed in its composition are the most powerful corrective of the derangements of the digestive organs, and the most reliable tonic in the pharmacopœia. Its sales are the largest of any medicine in the United States, and its reputation is unsurpassed by any proprietary remedy in the world. Ask your druggist for Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, and see that you get the genuine article.

COGGIA'S COMET.

The editor of the Providence Journal who has been looking at Coggia's Comet through a telescope, says the nucleus is a ball of glowing fire, but its light is subdued by a cloudy haze enveloping, surrounding and softening the central star, and pouring downward a misty veil like a distant mountain cascade to the limit of the field of vision. The wierd instant makes a charming picture, projected on the black background of the sky and ... visible evidence from the brightness and condensation of the nucleus, that so large a member of the cometary family has touched upon our domains, and that there is force enough pent up within that shining sphere, to send forth a tail reaching to an unimaginable length. It is curious to see the telescopic tail below the comet, when we know that the true one points directly upward, but this is caused by the inversion of the object in the instrument. It is also a drawback to enjoyment, that the field of view is too small to take in the whole comet ... and we have to make two or three adjustments to see the entire length of the tail. There are compensations in all things, and the comet seen by the naked eye or through an opera glass can be taken in at the first glance with the tail stretching upwards in its normal position. The instrument, however, reveals a power, depth and grandeur to the apparent size, proximity and ... of the comet that the unaided vision can never attain.

This comet was first discovered as a telescopic object on the 17th of April, by M. Coggia, an assistant astronomer at the Observatory at Marseilles. As there have been no comets of any importance in the heavens since the memorable era which appeared in succession, Donati's comet in 1858, the great comet of 1861, and Tuttle's comet of ... so curiously associated with the November meteors, the great comet of 1874 will be looked upon with peculiar interest. It was first seen in America, by Professor Swift, of Rochester, on the 5th of June, and it is now occupying the attention of astronomers all over the globe.

The most interesting calculations that we have seen in regard to it have been given by Henry M. Parkhurst a New York astronomer whose early predictions in regard to Donati's comet were fully confirmed in every particular. According to this observer, the length of the comet's tail was on the morning of the 25th of June, 5,000,000 miles. Assuming that it will increase in length one tenth on each day, on the 20th of July it will strike the earth. It will then, as it sweeps across the ecliptic fill a large portion of the heavens, and if its curvature is not too great, will completely envelop the earth, the wondrous phenomenon will be visible in the northern hemisphere unless the transit should occur in the day time. The brightness and condensation of the nucleus indicate the formation of a tail equal in length to the ... gigantic plume of Donati's comet, so well remembered and so fascinatingly beautiful.

As the nucleus is now moving south, and the tail increasing in length, bringing its extremity gradually northward, the head of the comet will reach the horizon in the northwest on the 14th of July, at twilight, so that it will become invisible, but the tail will then extend to the polar star. This comet's perihelion distance is just within the orbit of Venus. It moves in the same direction with the earth which will cause the tail, now near ... at right angles with the line of vision, gradually to turn towards us, though still apparently pointing in nearly the same direction. It will remain almost straight throughout its whole course, as the curvature will be directly from us, and therefore imperceptible, and it will be so foreshortened as to appear unusually wide at the end.

On the 18th of July, the tail will extend far beyond the pole, and will then appear to taper off rapidly to the end. During the succeeding three or four days it will so expand in the neighborhood of the pole as to fill a large part of the northern heavens. Unfortunately it will be so faint that it will not be very conspicuous but will look like an immense cloud or a new milky way. About the ... of July, the erratic visitor will probably disappear to northern observers, when the inhabitants of the southern hemisphere will be astonished by the appearance of a comet of remarkable size and brilliancy as unanticipated to them as was to northern eyes the comet of 1861, which suddenly burst forth in the summer sky.

A comet of uncommon dimensions and ... proximity is then fast approaching the terrestrial domains. It affords peculiar facilities for observation, it is situated near enough to the north pole to be distinctly visible in this latitude it is developing in a truly surprising manner, it can be watched by the naked eye, and it will reward the closest scrutiny for two weeks to come.

The men of science will attack it with spectroscopes and telescopes and every other available means to find out its origin, constitution, physical condition and the position it fills in the economy of the material universe. Never since greatly improved methods of scientific analysis have been attained has so choice an astronomical object appeared to exercise their powers, and cometic astronomy cannot fail to gain much from the severe ordeal to which the fair-haired guest will be perseveringly subjected. Unscientific observers will take careful heed to see if the startling predictions here advanced will be verified, they will note its nightly changes, its increasing brightness and expanding tail, while, thanks to the general diffusion of knowledge and the fuller comprehension of cometic constitutions, during its enshrouding embrace of the earth, hardly a fear will arise of any danger from its close proximity more than a brilliant aurora or a peculiar phosphorescent mist.

Judge James and Mr. Durant are busily engaged in preparing the laws of the last Congress for publication and also the general revision of the statutes at large. It has been decided to introduce, in connection with each section, a reference to all decisions of the Supreme Court bearing upon it. The work upon this feature and upon the index and marginal references will be pushed forward with all rapidity compatible with accuracy. Still, it is not expected that the revision can be ready to print much before the meeting of the December session.

The new District of Columbia Commission enters upon its work with an apparently earnest determination to cut down expenses to the lowest figure, as well as to sift out all fraud from the contracts already entered into and the expenditures incurred. It is estimated that $1,800,000 will be required to finish the contracts made. The manner in which the Commissioners begin their administration gives an assurance of careful scrutiny into contracts and economical performance of the work that will be received with gratification by the people at large as well as by the taxpayers of the District. They have a good opportunity to deserve praise, and appearances indicate that they do not mean to neglect it.

A Trinidad, Colorado, despatch states that bands of Comanche and Apache Indians are depredating 30 to 50 miles southeast of there on the Cimarron. They have killed two Americans named Bathe and Chase and three Mexicans, and taken one Mexican woman prisoner. They attacked the Mexican train Monday, and fought all day, but were driven off ultimately. Up to this time they have stolen 400 head of horses. Men and ammunition are being sent forward from Trinidad as fast as the horses can be procured.

The report that the white miners at Stoltsville had all gone to work is only partly correct. The union at that point dissolved some days ago, as a large number of the strikers were anxious to go to work, but the result has been that only about one hundred were re engaged, arrangements having been made to put two hundred colored miners to work. No trouble is anticipated.

A COLLEGE PRESIDENT ON THE RIGHT TRACK. The President of Bowdoin College, Maine, Mr. Chamberlain, in his address to the graduating class, pointed out the true standard between science and philosophy and religion, and criticised the theories of positivists and the false assumptions of scientists. Scepticism has run wild upon the mere theories of scientists, much to the injury of young minds in our schools, and no better service can be rendered to the cause of morality, religion and civilization than for learned professors to point out the fallacy and to show how religion and science can be made to harmonize.—N. Y. Herald.

The Roman Catholics of London have purchased the ground for the erection of a cathedral worthy the metropolitan see of England. The plans for the structure have been drawn, and very large sums of money have been subscribed to begin the work; but Archbishop Manning sternly insists that not a stone of the great cathedral shall be laid until every single poor Catholic child in London is in a Catholic school and receiving a good Catholic education. He has been eight years at this work. When he commenced it there were eleven thousand of these children in the schools. He has now got twenty five thousand on the books of the schools, but there are now three thousand more "wandering loose about the streets." When these are all caught and tamed, and put before the first stone of the new cathedral will be laid.

Pulmonic Syrup, Sea Weed Tonic, and Mandrake Pills.
These medicines have undoubtedly performed more cures of Consumption than any other remedy known to the American public. They are compounded of vegetable ingredients, and contain nothing which can be injurious to the human constitution.
Other remedies advertised as cures of Consumption, probably contain opium, which is a somewhat dangerous drug in all cases, and if taken freely by consumptive patients, it must do great injury; for its tendency is to confine the morbid matter in the system, which, of course, must make a cure impossible.
Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup is warranted not to contain a particle of opium. It is composed of powerful but harmless herbs, which act on the lungs, liver, stomach and blood, and thus correct all morbid secretions, and expel all the diseased matter from the body. These are the only means by which Consumption can be cured, and as Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup, Sea Weed Tonic, and Mandrake Pills are the only medicines which operate in this way, it is obvious they are the only genuine cure for Pulmonary Consumption. Each bottle of this invaluable medicine is accompanied by full directions.
Dr. Schenck is professionally at his principal office, corner Sixth and Arch Streets, Philadelphia, every Monday, and at the Quincy House, Boston, on the following Wednesdays, June 10th and 24th, July 8th and 22d, and August 5th and 19th.

DOMESTIC NEWS.

NEW YORK CITY.

A NEW PHASE IN THE POLICE MUDDLE.

NEW YORK, July 9. A new phase in the police muddle is presented by the resignation at a late hour last night of Commissioners Gardiner and Charlick and the appointment by Mayor Havemeyer of Geo. W. Matsell and John E. Voorhees to fill their places. This new move of the Mayor is ascribed to a desire to put a stop to the proceedings before the Governor and save a long investigation that would probably be ordered by the Governor, also to the fact that it was made manifest at the meeting of the Police Board yesterday that Gardiner and Charlick would not be re elected to their old positions of President and Treasurer. The other two Commissioners have voted steadily against it. Whatever were the Mayor's motives it is understood that to effect his removal will not be abandoned. The Committee of Tammany having the matter in charge, proceeded to West Hampton last evening to present their case to Gov Dix. The last appointees of the Mayor are regarded as personal rather than political. Matsell used to be a Democrat, but is now simply a "Havemeyer," which means in a political sense only an anti-Tammany Democrat. Voorhees was also formerly a Democrat, but of late years has had no political status except that of opponent alike of Tammany Hall and Custom House Republican ism. He was President of the 9th Ward Council of Political Reform and since has been an Excise Commissioner. He has favored strong action against the liquor dealers. The appointment of Matsell leaves a vacancy in the office of Superintendent of Police and that of Voorhees a vacancy in the Excise Board. Matsell is 60 years of age and Voorhees 48.

THE PROCEEDINGS ALREADY INSTITUTED

The morning papers criticise the Mayor's last move almost as severely as they did the previous one, particularly the appointment of Matsell.

APPOINTMENT.

The Mayor to-day appointed ex-Police Commissioner Hugh Gardner Excise Commissioner in place of John E. Voorhees, who was last night appointed Police Commissioner.

THE ALDERMEN AFTER HAVEMEYER.

At the meeting of the Board of Aldermen this afternoon, resolutions were adopted reciting the action of the Court against the late Police Commissioners and the subsequent action of Mayor Havemeyer in reinstating them and closing as follows:—

Resolved, That we earnestly request His Excellency, John A. Dix, to prevent the spread of the pernicious influences created by the above enumerated facts, which threaten to sap the foundation of law and order in our populous community, by exercising the power confided to the Governor by section 25, chapter 335, of the laws of 1873, and to suspend and remove Mayor William F. Havemeyer in accordance with the requirements of the provisions of the law.

A DEAD LOCK.

NEW YORK, July 8. The Police Commissioners met this afternoon and made repeated attempts to organize but failed again, Disbecker and Duryea voting for Disbecker for President, and Voorhees and Matsell voting for the latter. They will meet again Thursday. Meanwhile the Police Department is without a responsible head.

NEW TELEGRAPH COMPANY.

The Post says that negotiations are nearly completed for the formation of a new telegraph company by the principal Trunk Railways, from the Atlantic seaboard to the West, erecting telegraph lines on their routes and leasing such as a continuous line to the new company for 999 years, the railways as part compensation to use the telegraph without expense. The report states that Peter H Watson, President of the Erie road, is to be President of this new company, which it is believed will connect with the new Atlantic Cable now being laid to Portsmouth, N. H.

FATAL FALL.

Geo W. Fowler, a carpenter, fell from the 8th story of the Tribune building this forenoon and was instantly killed.

PROSPECTS FOR FALL TRADE.

The leading financial paper of the city says that as a rule, mercantile credits are good and there is a feeling in every department of business that we are to have an excellent fall trade, and this notwithstanding the persistent efforts in some quarters to croak in the interest of stock speculators who stand to win by further depression. The crops, it is now almost sure, are to be good, and that means a good trade and active business for the transportation lines.

THE BEECHER-TILTON SCANDAL.

EDITORIAL IN THE GOLDEN AGE.

NEW YORK, July 8. The Golden Age has the following editorial relative to the Beecher-Tilton affair:

THE POLICY OF SILENCE.

Plymouth church has adopted a policy of silence. It has seen the confusing tissue of misrepresentation and insinuation woven for the injury of one man and the protection of another swept away at a single blow, leaving its artifice exposed to the naked eye, and yet, in the face of a universal demand for explanation, it holds its peace. It sees the character of one whose good name it is bound to defend from every aspersion brought under grave and terrible suspicion, and while millions in an agony of sympathy for him entreat to open its lips and speak one assuring word, it persistently holds its tongue. The facts speak in trumpet tones. The American people asked for one word in behalf of a man they revered and loved more than any other. The single syllable of assurance from lips which have moved millions and have a witchery of persuasion possessed by no other on earth would have satisfied them. There was a splendid occasion, and there stood the man to fill it with a voice which would have gone like England's drum-beat round the world. They listened in death-like stillness and were treated to a silence that was almost audible. The fact admits of only one conclusion, and whoever thinks, draws the inevitable conclusion there is a silence more oppressive and ominous than that of death. The American people now know what that silence is.

DELAWARE.

THE SMUGGLERS.

WILMINGTON, July 8. This morning the prisoners arrested at Lewes yesterday, charged with smuggling, were arraigned before the Commissioner. Baker pleaded guilty and was held in $500 for trial. Wm. G. Ellegood and Samuel Marshall were discharged, and Wm. Ellegood, Alton and Wm. Crosby were each held in $1000 bail.

The rumor that Big Frank, the bank burglar, had again escaped from Newcastle jail is untrue.

THE GREAT BOAT RACE—BROWN THE WINNER.

SPRINGFIELD, July 8. The single-scull five-mile race for $[illegible] a side for the championship of America between George Brown of Halifax and Wm. [illegible] Scharff of Pittsburg, which occurred on the Connecticut at Springfield, to-day, was won by Brown by one and one-half boat lengths. Time 36:25.

PARTICULARS OF THE RACE.

Both men were in excellent condition and the water was as smooth as could be desired. Scharff soon took the lead and held it for about a mile, when Brown overhauled him and thereafter kept ahead until the end of the race. At the turning stake Brown was about a length ahead, and during the first mile of the home stretch increased his lead several lengths. During the last mile, however, Scharff made occasional spurts and somewhat reduced the distance between the two boats, but Brown had the race in his own hands and came in ahead in 36 minutes 45 seconds. The race was perfectly fair throughout—an honest trial in which Brown proved himself the better man.

FATAL AFFRAY.

SPRINGFIELD, July 8. In a quarrel about a mortgaged horse at Chicopee, to-day, J. M. Ross of this city and John Solon came to blows, the latter attacking Ross with a pitchfork, wounding him in the face. WISCONSIN.

THE RAILROAD WAR.

NEW YORK, July 8. Advices from Hudson, Wisconsin say that the conductor on the West Wisconsin Railway was arrested for charging a high rate of fare than allowed by the Potter act, and was discharged by Justice Thayer, of Hammond. A person named Fulton then caused the arrest of the agent at Hammond, and brought him before Justice Patton. A motion similar to the one granted by the Hammond Justice was then made, argued and denied. The case then went before a jury, who disagreed, standing four for acquittal and eight for conviction. The attorney of the Company then took the prisoner before Judge Moffat, who decided that the Potter act was unconstitutional and void, inasmuch as it prescribed fixed and arbitrary rates without any reference as to whether they were reasonable rates or not, thereby impairing the value of vested property without providing any compensation therefor.—The prisoner was conditionally discharged from custody.

THE INDIAN DEPREDATIONS.

MILES' REPORT AT HEAD QUARTERS.

WASHINGTON, July 8. The report of John D. Miles, Indian Agent at Osage City, Kansas, in regard to the depredations of the hostile Cheyennes, Comanches and Kiowas, was received at army headquarters to-day, and orders were immediately telegraphed to Gen. Pope, commanding the Department of Missouri, directing him to use the 6th Cavalry stationed in Kansas and the Indian Territory to break up the raid of these Indians and force them upon their reservations.

ANOTHER RAID.

ST LOUIS, July 8. A letter has been received from A. C. Meyers of Dodge City, Kansas, stating that his ranche on the Canadian river was attacked by Indians June 27th and three men killed. The Indians were repulsed, however, and eleven killed in a three hours' fight.

FOREIGN NEWS.

GREAT BRITAIN.

A BRITISH VIEW OF THE RECIPROCITY TREATY.

LONDON, July 8. The morning Standard reviewing the proposed reciprocity treaty between the United States and Canada says: "If adopted it will establish a separate North American Zollverein in regard to all essential articles of trade between the United States and the Dominion, excluding England from the Canadian markets like a foreign and less favored nation. The Canadian frontiers will be virtually obliterated and the absorption of the British North American Provinces by the United States becomes only a question of time."

FRANCE.

MACMAHON'S POWERS TO BE DEFENDED.

LONDON, July 8. The Times' Paris special says that the Right and Left Centres have agreed upon an order that the Assembly are determined to defend every attack of their opponents. The Cabinet still has a majority of fifty in the Assembly, but the Bonapartists and a portion of the Moderate Right who are able to turn the scale are wavering. If the government is defeated the dissolution of the Assembly is inevitable.

EXCITING SCENE IN THE ASSEMBLY.

PARIS, July 8. The Assembly opened to-day amid intense excitement. The floor was completely filled with Deputies and the galleries were crowded with distinguished spectators.

Lucien Brun moved the Assembly regrets the suspension of the Journal L'Union by the government. This motion was rejected by 80 to 279. The Left generally abstained from voting.

DEFEAT OF THE GOVERNMENT.

Thereupon M. Paris, a member of the Right Centre, moved the following: That the Assembly, resolving to energetically uphold the septennial powers conferred upon Marshal MacMahon, President of the Republic, and furthermore reserving the questions submitted to the Committee on Constitution Bills, passes to the order of the day.

Gen. de Cissey, Minister of War and Vice President of the Council, announced that the Government identified itself with the motion.

The question was taken and the motion of M. Paris was rejected, 331 to 368. The majority in this vote was composed of three fractions of the Left and eighty members of the Extreme Right.

Several Deputies immediately moved the order of the day, pure and simple, which was adopted, yeas 339, nays 315. It is considered that the last vote leaves the door open for but the impression at the close of the sitting was that nothing had been settled and the uncertainty which all along characterized the political situation is unrelieved.

THE NEW MINISTRY TO REMAIN IN POWER,

RESIGNATION OF THE MINISTRY.

PARIS, July 8. Immediately after the resignation of the Assembly to-day a Cabinet council was held at which the Ministers tendered their resignations to President MacMahon. He peremptorily them, and the Ministry remains constituted as before. The President will send a message to the Assembly to-morrow or next day in which he will announce his determination to conferred upon him for the time assigned by law and will insist upon the necessity for the complete organization of his power by the Assembly.

REFUSED TO ACCEPT

RETAIN THE POWERS

ABOUT TWO HUNDRED AMERICANS ON BOARD

The Purser, Mr. Shoer, has just arrived here and reports that all is quiet and he has arranged for the tug Anderson to go to the relief of the passengers.

Cespedes, a son of the late President of the Cuban patriots, has arrived here, he reports several engagements during May and that the Cubans are making steady headway in Cinco Villas district against the Spaniards. He states that if overtures were made at Washington by the Spaniards the Cubans would be willing to pay sixty or seventy millions of dollars to Spain to be allowed their freedom, which sum would now greatly aid Spain against the Carlists.

SPAIN.

WAR NOTES.

MADRID, July 8. Gen'l Zabala is making preparations to renew the attack upon the Carlists at Estella. The defeat of the Carlists in their attack upon Ternel, Saturday, was so complete that they have left that section of the country. THE REPUBLICAN ARMY has been reorganized and is divided into two corps. The first, under Moriones, will operate in Navarre and the second, under Cabal-los, will watch the Ebro district. The strength of the combined army exceeds 30,000 men, with 70 guns, and the headquarters are at Tavalla.

A Cold Water Temple was instituted in the afternoon, with Samuel T. Page as Superintendent, Mrs. Walter Hunter as Assistant and Miss Nettie Ryder as Secretary.

BURGLARY. For a few weeks past a band of professional burglars and sneak thieves have been operating in Portland, whither they had come from Boston and New York on a summer vacation. Several houses have been entered in Portland, the thieves in all cases taking pure silver plate, etc., rejecting plated ware and other articles not of real value. The people of that city have become seriously alarmed, which perhaps has caused the villains to move, for we next hear of them at Bath and Augusta. Tuesday night either they or some of their advance agents entered the house of Dr. Weston on Summer street, through one of the front windows of the house and then into a large clothes press, as was seen by drops of candle grease on the floor and things in the closet. From this they took clothing to the value of $100, but did not disturb other parts of the house, being frightened away as Dr. Weston thinks, by his footsteps overhead, he having been up late in the night. It will be well to keep a sharp lookout, securing doors and windows, lest the thieves succeed in making a general raid.

TRINITY CHURCH, EXETER.

LAYING OF THE CORNER STONE.

EXETER, July 8, 1874.

The ceremonies of laying the corner stone of the church of the "Most Holy Trinity," of this place, by the clergy of the Protestant Episcopal church, to-day, was a very interesting event.

St. John's choir of your city, numbering 20, and St. Mark's choir of Augusta, numbering 18, were present and furnished the music for the occasion. The organ was presided over by Mr. Sanborn, organist of St. Mark's, Augusta.

The day has been a gala day for Exeter, given up to the enjoyment of the hour; quite a large number of the inhabitants, in fact it seems all, assembled to welcome the strangers and testify their interest in the grand work of pointing another spire of faith to heaven. It may be interesting to your readers to read a brief account of the work of the Episcopal church in this field:

The first service was held here June 9, 1872, the first Sunday after Trinity; at that time there were only three communicants of the church and not more than five who ever witnessed even the form of service. Oct. 1, 1872, this was made a mission station, called the "Holy Trinity Mission." The ordinance of baptism was first administered to three persons, father, mother and daughter, Jan. 1, 1873, and the first confirmation was by Bishop Neely May 26, 1873, eight candidates being confirmed. The Sunday School was organized June 1, 1873, and now numbers nearly 100 scholars. There are at present 17 communicants of the church, and services are held every Sunday morning and evening, conducted by Rev. Mr. Price of Dexter.

THE SERVICES.

A procession was formed at the school house, led by the choirs of St. Mark's and St. John's, who were followed by the clergy, Rev Messrs. Upjohn of Augusta, Gardner of Bangor, Yewens of Lewiston, Price of Dexter, Stanley of Hallowell, Colton of Winn and Sawyer of Dexter. Then came the Sunday School bearing banners with appropriate inscriptions. The procession numbered some 200. The procession marched to the site of the church, where the corner stone was laid according to the forms of the church, the Rev. Mr. Price reading the part usually assigned to the Bishop. Before the corner stone was laid the hymn was sung:

> The Church's one foundation
> Is Jesus Christ, her Lord

Rev Mr Upjohn delivered a brief and very interesting address, the basis of which was the text "Other foundation can no man lay than that is laid even in Jesus Christ." I have not time and your space will not allow of even an abstract.

He was followed by Rev. Mr. Yewens of Lewiston, who spoke briefly and ably of the reason of the forms of the church. Then was sung the hymn—

> O mother dear, Jerusalem!
> When shall I come to thee!

Maine's poet laureate, David Barker, then read the following poem written or rather inspired for the occasion:

> Let your mitred Bishop stand
> My tele upturned, yielding sod,
> And with consecrated hand
> Lay your corner stone to God.
> Then with skillful builders' care
> Rear aloft your sacred dome,
> Raise your steeple high in air
> Pointing to a spirit home.
> Let no little burning brawls
> Fully nursed by blended zeal
> Ever echo round your walls—
> Fatal as the cannon's peal.
> To your robed and tutored Priest—
> Acting here his Master's part—
> Let me hold some thoughts at least,
> Gushing warmly from my heart.
> Whether pleasure come or pain,
> Whether worldly gain or loss,
> When the crucible you drain,
> Give us gold, refined from dross.
> With a scholar's loyal lore,
> And a heart imbued with love,
> Ever guard your chapel door,
> As they guard the gates above.
> Though your armor bids you face
> All the elements of strife,
> It will elevate your race
> To a higher plain of life.
> Preach the everlasting word
> Free from innovated taints—
> Preach the Christ that Peter heard
> As he journeyed with the Saints.
> By the help of Him who died
> As foretold by redemption's plan,
> Bridge the chasm deep and wide
> That has yawned 'twixt God and man.

The poem was listened to with the closest attention and at the close was warmly applauded.

Rev. Mr. Price then gave a list of the deposits in the cavity in the corner stone: The Bible, the Book of Common Prayer, the Dexter Gazette, and the BANGOR WHIG AND COURIER, after which was sung the hymn—

> Come Thou Almighty King,
> Help us Thy name to sing.

The corner stone was then laid by Rev Mr. Price of Dexter. This ceremony was followed by the hymn—

> All hail the power of Jesus' Name!

After the Offertory, during which Rev. Mr. Gardner of Bangor recited passages of Scripture, Rev. Mr. Upjohn read the closing prayer, the blessing was pronounced by Rev. Mr. Price and the Recessional was sung—

> "Holy, Holy, Holy Lord, God Almighty"

during which priests and people retired from the church site, and repaired to the banquet provided by the generosity of the ladies of Exeter, and that Divine Power which blessed the loaves and fishes by Galilee's shore must have presided at this feast, for while the multitude were all filled, there were more than twelve baskets' full of fragments left.

The day has been lovely, and while the sun was rather hot there has been a charming breeze, and the shower kindly waited till everything was done. W.

BOWDOIN COMMENCEMENT.

GATHERING OF THE CLANS—CLASS REUNIONS—JUNIOR PRIZE DECLAMATION, ETC.

BRUNSWICK, July 7.

To the Editor of the Whig & Courier.

The strangers seem to be arriving fast and in large numbers. There seems to be a good prospect for a large attendance. Among those who have arrived are Hon. R. D. Rice, Chief Justice Appleton, Prof. Stowe, Hon. W. P. Frye and Hon. J. M. Brown. There are to be several class reunions. Prof. Stowe's class has a reunion, the class of twenty-four. There are only six surviving members. The class of fifty-four held a reunion at the Parker House, Boston, last night. Hon. Warren Johnson, Hon. J. R. Osgood of Boston and Judge Simonds of Portland, are members of the class. The classes of '59 and '64 also have reunions. The class of '59 hold their re-union on Thursday evening after the President's reception. The Phi Beta Kappa Society have postponed their meeting until Friday morning.

The Boards assembled to-day at 2 P. M. No business of interest was transacted. The reports of the Committees were presented and a few formal votes on Committees for the ensuing year.

The Junior prize declamation was held on Tuesday evening in the Congregational church on the hill, in the presence of a large audience. The exhibition was a most satisfactory one and gave evidence that the elocutionary training which the Bowdoin students receive is both thorough and judicious. The programme of the evening was as follows:—

Shylock—Shakespeare.
Charles L. Clarke, Portland.
Rienzi to the Romans—Mitford.
Francis R. Upton, Peabody, Mass
Eulogy on Charles Sumner—Curtis.
Frank P. Virgin, Lewiston
MUSIC.
The Leper—Willis.

*Lincoln A. Rogers, Topsham
MUSIC.
Over the Hill from the Poor House—Carleton.
Parker P. Simmons, Kingston, Mass.
The Jackdaw of Rheims—Barham.
Myles Standish, Allston, Mass
Lincoln's Election, 1861—Phillips.
Seth L. Larrabee, Oak Hill.
MUSIC.

*Excused

The Committee to award the prizes of $20 and $10, consisted of Professors Cyrus F. Brackett, formerly of Bowdoin, and now of Princeton, James McKeen of New York and W. G. Nowell of the Boston High School. The first prize was awarded to Myles Standish of Allston, Mass., and the second to Seth L. Larabee, Oak Hill. Q. S.

THE IMPERIAL BELL. German fatalists, and especially those among them who are antagonistic to German unity, are greatly interested in the history of the "Imperial Bell" for the Cathedral of Cologne, made from the first cannon captured from the French in the recent war. This bell was intended to take the place of the "Imperial Bell" of Frankfort which was destroyed by the fire which took place in the Cathedral August 14, 1867, on the eve of the triumphal entry of William of Prussia into that ancient free city. Three attempts to cast the new bell were failures, and that produced on the fourth attempt was not only minus the Imperial crown which ought to have surmounted it as an emblem of German unity, but was so disagreeable in its tone that it was out of the question to hang it. A fifth casting will accordingly be made, and the superstitious, who consider the misadventures attending the work as ominous of ill for the Empire, await the result with something akin to anxiety.

Thomas Kemp of New Brunswick, N. J., who threw his three children into the canal Monday, drowning one of them, and then attempted to drown himself, died on Tuesday of disease of the heart.

An eminent physician says that, in his opinion, there is no such thing as cholera infantum. It is all the effect of the baby's imagination. He says that the popular superstition that it is more prevalent in summer than in winter has also been shown to be without any foundation whatever.—Louisville Courier Journal.

Pierce's Rheumatic Cure
FOR RHEUMATISM & NEURALGIA.
A Tried and Sure Cure.

This remedy is the result of the research of one of the proprietors who had been a great sufferer for years, and who had tried all the advertised remedies and the skill of many physicians without obtaining relief. A radical cure was obtained, and numerous similar cures effected among his friends and acquaintances without an exception, have induced him to put it before the public. It was going without a thought of making it an article of merchandise, but the numerous and increasing demands for it, as its merits have become known, have induced him to advertise it for the benefit of sufferers like himself.

It is an infallible remedy, if persistently used, for those painful maladies of Rheumatism and Neuralgia, as testimonials, too abundant to give in this advertisement, will show. Among these are mentioned those of Mrs. Judge Appleton, E. M. Talcott, J. M. Morrill, (foreman of Hinckley and Holt's Foundry) C. B. Emery, and others of Bangor. W. J. McNabb, (of the Exeter House, Moosehead Lake,) Alvarus R. Drew, of Eddington, a sufferer for fourteen years, and at times helpless, having tried the best known remedies and three skillful physicians without effect. After using seven bottles, has been restored to health, and gives his grateful testimonial.

It is an internal remedy, acting on the blood, freeing it from impurities and imparting free and healthy action to the system. It may be used by children and those of the most delicate constitution with perfect safety. Full directions with each bottle.

Price per bottle $1 00. Liberal discount to the trade. For sale by Druggists generally.

"THEY SAY."

BY [illegible]

They say 'tis but a fraud—a cheat—
A wily rogue that fears to meet
The honest face—the truthful eye
[illegible] much evens and sly.

They say oft wears the sweetest smile,
And face from index free from guile,
[illegible] ever ready to disclose
Its sympathy for others' woes.

It even while before your face
It fawns, with sycophantic grace,
Concealed within its broidered sheath,
There lies a murderous steel beneath!

With whisper vogue—and meaning smile—
So irresponsible the while—
It goes upon its treacherous way,
And slays its thousands in a day!

At [illegible] I would say to thee, my friend,
Wh[illegible] over these simple lines shall bend,
Never may dim of thine be stirred
By utterance of a slanderous word!

VERA.

The train stopped. The conductor shouted "[illegible] Hill" It was an express train about to fly on again immediately, and Vera had scarcely time to bid adieu to stiff old Mrs Murray, and to be helped out by Mr Murray, who had been her protectors on the journey. A carriage was waiting at a little distance—an old-fashioned affair that looked like a small caravan.

"Is that Miss Nesbitt's carriage?" Mr Murray asked one of the porters.

"Yes sir."

"Come, then, my dear, there's no time to [illegible]" said the old gentleman, hastening with Vera to the carriage, speaking to the coachman, and giving directions to a porter about the luggage. "Good bye once more, Miss Vera. I hope we shall hear good reports of your health, and—and of all the rest."

He was gone before Vera could thank him for his good wishes, even had she desired, but she did not. She was too much vexed at that last hesitating clause. She was sure now that her mamma had told him and Mrs. Murray the whole story. This was what had [illegible] him roll up his eyes and quote Dr [illegible] and talk vaguely about the horrible [illegible] obeying one's pastors and masters.

[illegible] they were gone, anyway. Now for [illegible] Vera sat in the ancient chariot [illegible] waited while her luggage was fastened [illegible]. She heard the men swear [illegible] and it was finally decided that [illegible] should be sent over later by "Robbie [illegible]." Her consent was not even asked [illegible] Miss Nesbitt's willful old servant. Vera [illegible] additional indignity. Perhaps [illegible] Perhaps Miss Nesbitt could [illegible] keep anything to herself than mamma. The carriage drove [illegible] Vera leaned back [illegible] unhappy enough, but just for the [illegible] to [illegible] that miserable. Her [illegible] guardians were not content with [illegible] her heart—they must needs make [illegible].

Up hill and down over a passable road, [illegible] pretty scenery and cultivated fields, with pleasant woodlands in the foreground, and a long sweep of lofty hills beyond—bonnie hills of the [illegible] land. That was what Vera saw as the fat horses trotted leisurely—[illegible] her state of mind [illegible] that the country had not been [illegible] but Vera was neither [illegible]. Because she could not [illegible] she wanted in the world she felt [illegible] she should avoid any chance [illegible] which might come in her way.

[illegible] near Miss Nesbitt's [illegible] an old fashioned red brick house, [illegible] spreading wings, half hidden among [illegible] cedars and other trees.

Driving through the avenue, the coachman [illegible] his horses at the hall steps. Out of [illegible] tall, erect elderly lady, [illegible] a handsome one, with a sufficiently [illegible] had it not been for the satirical expression of mouth, but the sharp gleam of the gray eyes. Vera had never seen this relative, her mother's aunt, but once, and that was [illegible] years before. She looked eagerly at this new jailor, as she mentally called her.

"How do you do, Vera," said Miss Nesbitt, [illegible] out her hand to take one the young lady, and speaking with as much matter of [illegible] as though she had parted [illegible] only yesterday. "Drove round with the luggage, I suppose. It must be taken up by back stairs."

[illegible] his horses, and they disappeared at the side of the house. Miss Nesbitt turned again to Vera. "Hum!" said [illegible] Your eyes are not red. I expected [illegible] tears. Both your [illegible]

I am sorry to disappoint you, aunt, I [illegible] in tears," replied Vera, with [illegible]

[illegible] was amused, rather approving [illegible] the elder woman's eyes, which Vera [illegible]

"You are the third," she continued. "I have had one [illegible] in turn from each of my [illegible] nieces."

[illegible] completely at odds with the world [illegible] upon most people, and especially her aunt, as her natural enemies, felt [illegible] by the sarcastic [illegible] at once.

"Have you ever had any other prisoners, Aunt Nesbitt?"

[illegible] perfectly un[illegible] Mine is a very private mad house, [illegible] for my affectionate [illegible]

[illegible] she spoke. Vera could not [illegible]

[illegible] said Aunt Nesbitt. "Make haste [illegible] luncheon is on the table [illegible] events."

[illegible] said Vera. "I am dreadful [illegible] journey was a long one, I [illegible] my hat and cloak here."

[illegible] Nesbitt nodded her head as she led [illegible] way to the dining room, ruminating—[illegible] is made of different stuff from her [illegible] thought she. "Veronica Nesbitt, [illegible] is me of you in the old, old days."

They sat down to the table. The lunch [illegible] was excellent and Vera ate with an ex[illegible] appetite, talking occasionally.

"[illegible] are not a bit like a [illegible] Aunt Nesbitt."

"You will find me quite enough [illegible]," said Vera.

"Do you mean that as a threat?" [illegible]

"[illegible]," said Vera. "I [illegible] up my mind [illegible] more than you, and [illegible] the best of my [illegible] here that I can."

[illegible]

[illegible]

Vera smiled slightly.

"[illegible] think you are likely [illegible] always," said Aunt Nesbitt. "So did [illegible] when she first came, she stayed three [illegible] So did Josephine, she held out [illegible]. Imagine what I must be like."

"I should say it was you who got tired of them," returned Vera. "You found husbands for them both."

"Yes [illegible] Mr Masters happened to come this way that year and he fell in love with [illegible] Jane decided that diamonds and [illegible] were worth more than the future love [illegible] she had been dreaming of."

"And Josephine turned to good works and married one of your parsons."

"Yes, and I was more glad of that marriage than the other. I wonder who will carry you off?"

"Nobody," retorted Vera, incipient defiance in her tone.

"Oh dear!" sighed Aunt Nesbitt. "Here comes Maria," she added, as a little middle aged maid appeared. "Perhaps you would like to go and see your prison cell. Maria, show Miss Raymond her rooms."

A large pleasant bedroom and a dressing room, handsomely furnished in an old-fashioned way, with a lovely look-out from the windows. Maria was in ecstacies at Miss Raymond's praise of the rooms and the place altogether, asked for her keys, and began taking the things out of her trunks. Vera sat down by one of the dressing room windows, leaned her elbows on the sill, and gazed wistfully out over the grand and charming scene.

Suddenly she felt the half bitter, half-bewildered composure, which had supported her during the journey and the interview, began to give way. She closed the door into the bedroom, where Maria was still busy, turned the key softly, and let her hysterical passion of tears have its course. She wept for awhile as if her heart were bursting, careful to restrain the sound of her sobs. Presently a reaction set in.

"There, I think I have cried enough," she said, with an odd little choking sound, meant to be a laugh. "I have been keeping it in for a whole day and night."

A fatality seemed to attend the Raymond family. Before Vera, two sisters had, in turn been exiled for the same offence which she had committed; a determination to love the wrong man. An unpardonable sin in Mrs. Raymond's creed—their mother.

Vera could remember when the oldest sister, Jane, was sent to Aunt Nesbitt's dwelling. She was thirteen then. Later, Josephine was dispatched. As Vera grew up she vowed that no such destiny should overtake her. The very rapidity with which her sisters had recovered from the dreams and troubles of their first love, and come back home engaged girls, soon to be married, had excited the wonder of Vera; but she thought they must be very sensible. At eighteen Vera came out. Vera was her favorite child; and Vera seemed to care only for riches and the desirable pomps of life; no fear that she would be falling in love with the wrong man.

Some wonderful parti made his appearance in society, and Mrs. Raymond determined that he should fall a prey to Vera's charms. The girl made a grand success. She was the beauty of the season; had a crowd of admirers always about her. Her witticisms were quoted, her singing and dancing pronounced adorable, her fair haired beauty was unsurpassed.

She flirted outrageously, but her mother did not mind that, it would only serve to excite the rich Mr Osborne, he for whom Mrs. Raymond launched into extravagances that she could ill afford. Mr. Osborne struggled against his fate, as eligible men, who have learned to believe themselves haunted by pretty girls and match-making mothers are wont to do, and then fell a hopeless victim. Mrs. Raymond had no fears, she was sure that when he proposed Vera would accept him. Mr Osborne made the mother his confidante. He wished, before addressing Vera, to be certain that she had learned to care for him. The foolish man wanted to be loved by his future wife! Mrs. Raymond acquiesced, and threw them much together.

Alas! A short while, and the horrified Mrs Raymond discovered that Vera, like her sisters had done, was "making a fool of herself." She had fallen in love with that handsome young fellow, Moore Rivington, a man of good family, and all that, but poor as a church mouse. Falling in love was not the worst of it—they were secretly engaged.

Mrs Raymond did not fly into a rage; she only talked reason, laughed, and carried Vera off on a round of visits, ending with a sojourn at a fashionable watering place, where Vera was made a queen of. And she enjoyed her sovereignty so much that the mother believed Mr. Osborne's victory was to be an easy one.

But her short lived hopes received a second fall. Mr Osborne proposed to Vera, and was refused. Some other eligible man proposed also, and he shared the same fate. Mrs. Raymond went nearly out of her her mind, but it was of no avail. Vera did not shrink and moan, as her sisters had done, neither threatened, like them to go into a convent or kill herself.

"I only love Moore Rivington," she said, with a cold composure that her mother called obstinacy. "It would be a sin to marry another man. I will not do it." And Mr. Moore Rivington said the same thing on his own part to Mrs. Raymond.

Vera was impervious to anger, sneers, prayers. She grew pale and thin, but she would not yield. Mr Osborne she would not have, it should be Moore Rivington or nobody.

"You shall go over the border to your Aunt Nesbitt's," cried Mrs. Raymond in despair. "She soon brought Jane and Josephine to their senses, and she shall bring you to yours."

So that was how the exile to Aunt Nesbitt's came about. She was a very rich, whimsical, tyrannical old maid, as Mrs. Raymond had always fully believed. Vera had seen her years before, and had thought her a terrible woman, quite awful for severity.—Miss Nesbitt never visited her niece, Mrs. Raymond, and only permitted visits from her at rare intervals. She told her, with the charming frankness common to rich relations that if she (Mrs. Raymond) were not the most tremendous fool in the world, she would have been the greatest rogue, for she had not a bit of true honor. Still she sent her money sometimes and Mrs. Raymond bore her cynicism for the sake of the material aid.

So, now, in the midst of the beautiful September month Vera was under the old lady's roof, but her reception made her hope that, after all, life would be more endurable than when exposed to her mother's petty persecutions. Aunt Nesbitt looked as determined as a rock, capable of passing sentence on a guilty person, and hanging the criminal with her own hands, but she evidently would attempt no small tyranny, and Vera could bear anything better than nagging. Her mother was an adept at that.

Vera did not see her aunt again until dinner time. She appeared in the dining-room as carefully dressed as if she expected to meet a dozen people. Miss Nesbitt had also dressed.

The old lady talked cheerfully, as she thought to any young lady visitor; and Vera thoroughly enjoyed her quaint stories and sarcastic views of men and women in general.

"Hum!" said the old lady, at last, "I think you must mean mischief, Mademoiselle, my niece."

"You said all girls meant it," said Vera. "Jane went about in a dressing gown, with her hair down her back, for a week," pursued the old lady. "She looked very like Juliet. She repeated poetry, and strolled out at night to stare at the moon. The only result was a cold in the head, succeeded by a swollen face."

"Ah! I am too vain to run those risks," said Vera.

"Josephine had hysterics at all kinds of unreasonable hours," continued Aunt Nesbitt. "She lived on green tea without milk, and thought she must poison herself with red ink. Once my maid woke me in the middle of the night, to say that Miss Raymond was standing at the open staircase window, threatening to throw herself down, the house keeper, in tears, holding her back."

"What did you do?" asked Vera.

"Went up stairs—sent the servants down. 'You shan't stop me, I will die!' shrieked the heroine. 'Die, bad I, why not? Good-bye my [illegible] I hope we shall meet in Heaven—Come! why don't you jump?'"

Vera laughed. "What next, aunt?"

"She did not attempt to do it, she fainted instead on the window seat—or pretended to. I pinched her, and shook her, and slapped her all the [illegible], [illegible] she got, flew to [illegible] room like a lamp-lighter, and locked the [illegible]. A day or two elapsed. Not another word [illegible] Miss Nesbitt about the matter that had sent Vera to her care. One morning the [illegible] came in while they were at breakfast Miss Nesbitt looked to see if the girl seemed disappointed because there were none for her.

"Vera," said she, "few women can keep a promise. Can you?"

A strange smile flitted over Vera's lips—Aunt Nesbitt understood that it meant, "I have made one promise I mean to keep."

Miss Nesbitt considered a little. Was this just girlish obstinacy, or was it a woman's firm resolve?

"Vera," she continued, "I hate to be bored by watching and spying. Will you engage neither to receive letters from her to send any to that nice young man of yours, who had caused all this trouble?"

"I had to promise that I would not write to let him know where I am, and I must perforce keep the promise," answered Vera, with flashing eyes and quivering lips. "I have some honor within me, Aunt Nesbitt."

"Should he find out where you are, and come here, will you promise not to hold any stolen interview?"

"I would see him if I could," replied Vera, quietly. "But you need not be afraid. He has gone to India."

"Gone to India?"

"When the explosion came, he said it was the only thing left for him to do. Somebody undertook to get him a berth there."

"Ah, yes!" cried Aunt Nesbitt. "The old story! He is to make a fortune, and come back. Let me see—you may expect to meet him when you are about forty-two."

"I can wait," said Vera.

"Though it is more probable you will hear of his return in a year and a half, with an heiress for a wife," added Miss Nesbitt opening her letters.

"Did any man ever treat you so?" demanded Vera, too angry to think what the consequence of arousing the old lady's anger.

Miss Nesbitt laid down her letter, leaned her hands on the table, and looked at her niece through and through with her steely gray eyes.

"Yes," she answered, slowly; "a man did treat me so. Exactly in that way. Are you satisfied now? Will you admit that I have some right to doubt young men—young women, too?"

"I beg your pardon?" exclaimed the impulsive girl. "Indeed, indeed, I am sorry."

"There's no harm done," said Miss Nesbitt, in an old tone. "Vera, you are the only human being that ever heard my secret. I don't know why I answered you. I ought to have boxed your ears."

"I wish you would—I deserve it," cried Vera.

"I never box anybody's ears, unless they tread on Sarah's tail," said Aunt Nesbitt, stroking the head of a beautiful Angora cat, that sat on a chair by her side. "But I am sixty-two—women don't have feelings at that age. It is only pretty Juliets of eighteen who can indulge in such luxuries."

DR. LAMBERT UPON "BIOMETRY."

The crowded state of our columns in yesterday's issue compelled us to defer notice of Dr. Lambert's address before the committee of the Legislature, on Wednesday evening. The house was crowded by an attentive audience, including members of the medical fraternity, the [illegible] and the clergy, and other professional men. The scope of the lecture was to present in some of its leading principles and features, the subject of "Biometry," or the laws of hereditary descent, and the signs and indications of longevity, as a science positive, practicable, and of very great value in its application to all the varied relations of life. He gave practical illustrations—referring to strangers in the audience, of the signs and indications of longevity—and stated very clearly and succinctly the laws and principles upon which the science rests. The practical facts noticed by all, of hereditary tendencies, were shown to have relation to the inherent capabilities of living. These conditions can all be measured, and a judgment upon them by one who has become even ordinarily expert may be relied upon—especially in determining the proper premiums to be charged in insuring lives. Referring to the "experience" tables in use by the Insurance Companies, their disagreement with each other and their inconsistencies as assumed data were pointed out. It was urged that the only safe and just basis was found in following the teachings of Biometry, and rating each risk upon its own characteristics. The safety, as well as the equity, of this was shown in the fact, as an illustration, that in the company with which he is connected (the American Popular, which originated the plan, the death losses have been for the last year only between three and four per thousand persons, while some companies have, out as high as twenty-four, and many over ten per thousand—the varying rates of loss being in themselves proof of the unreliability of the tables, and of the general average system of insuring all lives of the same age at the same rate. Life insurance, he said, is simply protection of the family in case of the death of its head, and its simple and common sense method is found in the payment, year by year, of the natural premium representing the mortality belonging properly to that year,—the "Term Life Increasing Premium,"—at low cost, without surplus, without "dividends," without speculation, without deception.

Dr. Lambert was appropriately introduced by Dr. Carpenter, of the Assembly, and was listened to throughout his long address with marked attention.

No other company in the world applies these principles, or gives the advantage of a lower rate of premium to those possessed of the natural inheritance of long life.

The only questions with them are sound health and the general average mortality of a given age.

The AMERICAN POPULAR, by its gradation of risks, insures each according to the individual characteristics of the risk,

It fixes the premium rate accordingly without any special reference to the age.

Its premiums are based therefore upon the actual risk of the individual, charging him only the cost of carrying his risk.

This is JUST, EQUITABLE and SAFE.

Eight years' experience has proved these facts.

OFFICIAL.

LAWS OF THE UNITED STATES,

Passed at the First Session of the Forty-third Congress.

[GENERAL NATURE—No. 30.]

AN ACT to amend the act entitled "An act to encourage the growth of timber on western prairies."

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That the act entitled "An act to encourage the growth of timber on western prairies," approved March third, eighteen hundred and seventy-three, be, and the same is hereby, amended so as to read as follows: That any person who is the head of a family or who has arrived at the age of twenty-one years, and is a citizen of the United States, or who shall have filed his declaration of intention to become such, as required by the naturalization laws of the United States, who shall plant, protect, and keep in a healthy, growing condition for eight years, forty acres of timber, the trees thereon not being more than twelve feet apart each way, on any quarter-section of any of the public lands of the United States, or twenty acres on any legal subdivision of eighty acres, or ten acres on any legal subdivision of forty acres, or one-fourth part of any fractional subdivision of land less than forty acres, shall be entitled to a patent for the whole of said quarter-section, or of such legal subdivision of eighty or forty acres, or fractional subdivision of less than forty acres, as the case may be, at the expiration of said eight years, on making proof of such fact by not less than two credible witnesses: Provided, That not more than one quarter of any section shall be thus granted, and that no person shall make more than one entry under the provisions of this act, unless fractional subdivisions of less than forty acres are entered which, in the aggregate, shall not exceed one quarter-section.

SEC. 2. That the person applying for the benefit of this act shall, upon application to the register of the land district in which he or she is about to make such entry, make affidavit, before the register, or the receiver, or some officer authorized to administer oaths in the district where the land is situated, who is required by law to use an official seal, that said entry is made for the cultivation of timber, and upon filing said affidavit with said register and said receiver, and on payment of ten dollars, he or she shall thereupon be permitted to enter the quantity of land specified; and the party making an entry of a quarter-section under the provisions of this act shall be required to break ten acres of the land covered thereby the first year, ten acres the second year, and twenty acres the third year after date of entry, and to plant ten acres of timber the second year, ten acres the third year, and twenty acres the fourth year after date of entry. A party making an entry of eighty acres shall break and plant at the times hereinbefore prescribed, one-half of the quantity required of a party who enters a quarter section, and a party entering forty acres shall break and plant, at the times hereinbefore prescribed, one-quarter of the quantity required of a party who enters a quarter-section, or a proportionate quantity for any smaller fractional subdivision: Provided, however, That no final certificate shall be given or patent issued for the land so entered until the expiration of eight years from the date of such entry; and, if at the expiration of such time, or at any time within five years thereafter, the person making such entry, or if he or she be dead, his or her heirs or legal representatives shall prove, by two credible witnesses, that he, or she, or they have planted, and, for not less than eight years, have cultivated and protected such quantity and character of timber as aforesaid, they shall receive a patent for such quarter-section, or legal subdivision of eighty or forty acres of land, or for any fractional quantity of less than forty acres, as herein provided. And in case of the death of a person who has complied with the provisions of this act for the period of three years, his heirs or legal representatives shall have the option to comply with the provisions of this act, and receive, at the expiration of eight years, a patent for one hundred and sixty acres, or receive without delay a patent for forty acres, releasing all claim to the remainder.

SEC. 3. That if at any time after the filing of said affidavit, and prior to the issuing of the patent for said land, the claimant shall abandon the land, or fail to do the breaking and planting required by this act, or any part thereof, or shall fail to cultivate, protect, and keep in good condition such timber, then, and in that event, such land shall be subject to entry under the homestead laws, or by some other person under the provisions of this act: Provided, That the party making claim to said land, either as a homestead settler or under this act, shall give at the time of filing his application, such notice to the original claimant as shall be prescribed by the rules established by the Commissioner of the General Land Office, and the rights of the parties shall be determined as in other contested cases.

SEC. 4. That each and every person who, under the provisions of the act entitled "An act to secure homesteads to actual settlers on the public domain," approved May twentieth, eighteen hundred and sixty-two, or any amendment thereto, having a homestead on said public domain, who, at any time after the end of the third year of his or her residence thereon shall, in addition to the settlement and improvements now required by law, have had under cultivation, for two years, one acre of timber, the trees thereon not being more than twelve feet apart each way, and in a good thrifty condition, for each and every sixteen acres of said homestead, shall upon due proof of such fact by two credible witnesses receive his or her patent for said homestead.

SEC. 5. That no land acquired under the provisions of this act shall in any event become liable to the satisfaction of any debt or debts contracted prior to the issuing of certificate therefor.

SEC. 6. That the Commissioner of the General Land-Office is hereby required to prepare and issue such rules and regulations, consistent with this act, as shall be necessary and proper to carry its provisions into effect; and that the registers and the receivers of the several land-offices shall each be entitled to receive two dollars at the time of entry, and the same sum when the claim is finally established and the final certificate issued.

SEC. 7. That the fifth section of the act entitled "An act in addition to an act to punish crimes against the United States, and for other purposes," approved March third, eighteen hundred and fifty-seven, shall extend to all oaths, affirmations, and affidavits required or authorized by this act.

SEC. 8. That parties who have already made entries under the act approved March third, eighteen hundred and seventy-three, of which this is amendatory, shall be permitted to complete the same upon full compliance with the provisions of this act.

Approved, March 13, 1874.

CONVENTION between the United States and Belgium. Extradition. Concluded March 19, 1874. Ratification advised by Senate March 27, 1874. Ratified by President March 31, 1874. Ratified by King of the Belgians April 30, 1874. Ratifications exchanged at Brussels April 30, 1874. Proclaimed May 1, 1874.

By the President of the United States of America.

A PROCLAMATION.

Whereas a convention between the United States of America and His Majesty the King of the Belgians was concluded and signed by their respective Plenipotentiaries at Washington on the 19th day of March last, which convention, being in the English and French languages, is word for word as follows:

The United States of America and His Majesty the King of the Belgians, having judged it expedient, with a view to the better administration of justice, and to the prevention of crimes within their respective territories and jurisdiction, that persons convicted of or charged with the crimes hereinafter specified, and being fugitives from justice, should, under certain circumstances, be reciprocally delivered up, have resolved to conclude a convention for that purpose, and have appointed as their Plenipotentiaries, the President of the United States of America, Hamilton Fish, Secretary of State of the United States, and His Majesty the King of the Belgians, Maurice Delfosse, His Majesty's Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary in the United States, who, after reciprocal communication of their full powers, found in good and due form, have agreed upon the following articles, to wit:

ARTICLE I.

The Government of the United States and the Government of Belgium mutually agree to deliver up persons who, having been convicted of or charged with any of the crimes specified in the following article, committed within the jurisdiction of one of the contracting parties, shall seek an asylum, or be found within the territories of the other: Provided that this shall only be done upon such evidence of criminality as, according to the laws of the place where the fugitive or person so charged shall be found, would justify his or her apprehension and commitment for trial if the crime had been there committed.

ARTICLE II.

Persons shall be delivered up who shall have been convicted of or be charged, according to the provisions of this convention, with any of the following crimes:

1. Murder, comprehending the crimes designated in the Belgian penal code by the terms of parricide, assassination, poisoning, and infanticide.
2. The attempt to commit murder.
3. The crimes of rape, arson, piracy, and mutiny on board a ship, whenever the crew, or part thereof, by fraud or violence against the commander, have taken possession of the vessel.
4. The crime of burglary, defined to be the act of breaking and entering by night into the house of another with the intent to commit felony; and the crime of robbery, defined to be the act of feloniously and forcibly taking from the person of another goods or money by violence or putting him in fear, and the corresponding crimes punished by the Belgian laws under the description of thefts committed in an inhabited house by night, and by breaking in by climbing or forcibly; and thefts committed with violence or by means of threats.
5. The crime of forgery, by which is understood the utterance of forged papers, and also the counterfeiting of public, sovereign, or government acts.
6. The fabrication or circulation of counterfeit money, either coin or paper, or of counterfeit public bonds, bank notes, obligations, or, in general, anything being a title or instrument of credit; the counterfeiting of seals, dies, stamps, and marks of state and public administrations, and the utterance thereof.
7. The embezzlement of public moneys committed within the jurisdiction of either party, by public officers or depositaries.
8. Embezzlement by any person or persons, hired or salaried, to the detriment of their employers, when the crime is subject to punishment by the laws of the place where it was committed.

ARTICLE III.

The provisions of this treaty shall not apply to any crime or offence of a political character, nor to any crime, or offence committed prior to the date of this treaty, except the crimes of murder and arson; and the person or persons delivered up for the crimes enumerated in the preceding article shall in no case be tried for any crime committed previously to that for which his or their surrender is asked.

ARTICLE IV.

Neither of the contracting parties shall be bound to deliver up its own citizens or subjects under the stipulations of this convention.

ARTICLE V.

If the person whose surrender may be claimed pursuant to the stipulations of the present treaty shall have been arrested for the commission of offences in the country where he has sought an asylum, or shall have been convicted thereof, his extradition may be deferred until he shall have been acquitted, or have served the term of imprisonment to which he may have been sentenced.

ARTICLE VI.

Requisitions for the surrender of fugitives from justice shall be made by the respective diplomatic agents of the contracting parties, or, in the event of the absence of these from the country or its seat of government, they may be made by superior consular officers.

If the person whose extradition may be asked for shall have been convicted of a crime, a copy of the sentence of the court in which he may have been convicted, authenticated under its seal, and an attestation of the official character of the judge by the proper executive authority, and of the latter by the minister or consul of the United States or of Belgium, respectively, shall accompany the requisition. When, however, the fugitive shall have been merely charged with crime, a duly authenticated copy of the warrant for his arrest in the country where the crime may have been committed, and of the depositions upon which such warrant may have been issued, must accompany the requisition as aforesaid. The President of the United States, or the proper executive authority in Belgium, may then issue a warrant for the apprehension of the fugitive, in order that he may be brought before the proper judicial authority for examination. If it should then be decided that, according to the law and the evidence, the extradition is due pursuant to the treaty, the fugitive may be given up according to the forms prescribed in such cases.

ARTICLE VII.

The expenses of the arrest, detention, and transportation of the persons claimed shall be paid by the government in whose name the requisition has been made.

ARTICLE VIII.

This convention shall take effect twenty days after the day of the date of the exchange of ratifications, and shall continue in force during five years from the day of such exchange, but if neither party shall have given to the other six months' previous notice of its intention to terminate the same, the convention shall remain in force five years longer, and so on.

The present convention shall be ratified, and the ratifications exchanged, at Brussels as soon thereafter as possible.

In witness whereof the respective plenipotentiaries have signed the present convention in duplicate, and have thereunto affixed their seals.

Done at the city of Washington, the 19th day of March, Anno Domini one thousand eight hundred and seventy-four.

[SEAL] HAMILTON FISH.
[SEAL] MAURICE DELFOSSE.

And whereas the said convention has been duly ratified on both parts, and the respective ratifications of the same were exchanged at Brussels on the 30th day of April, 1874, by the Plenipotentiaries of the respective Governments:

Now, therefore, be it known that I, ULYSSES S. GRANT, President of the United States of America, have caused the said convention to be made public, to the end that the same, and every clause and part thereof, may be observed and fulfilled with good faith by the United States and the citizens thereof.

In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand, and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.

Done at the city of Washington this first day of May, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and seventy-four, and of the Independence of the United States of America the ninety-eighth.

[SEAL.] U. S. GRANT.

By the President. HAMILTON FISH, Secretary of State.
